New Year, Wednesday, Aug. 3.—The New York Tribune's special from Frederick, Md., dated at 9:30 last evening, ms the following confirmation of the reported defeat of the rebels at Comberland: eventuation of the reported celeat of the rebels at Cumberland:

"Gen. Kelly was attacked at Cumberland yesterday, at four e'elock in the afternoon, by a large force under Bradley, Johnson and McCausland. After a severe fight of several hours' duration, he completely routed the enemy, capturing several caissons, a great many wagons, and a vast amount of plander, which they had stolen in Pennsylvania. The enemy is in full retreat toward Oldtown, and Kelly us pursuing him."

It is generally understood that the force which Early has in the valley is quite large, numbering at least 35,000 men. He is now engaged in threshing wheat.

Is it probable that Jost. Davis would enter into negotiation on such a basis? There is therefore this logical impossibility in the way of ending the war by negotiation, in the way in which we want it ended, vise that every person authorized to end the war on behalf of the rebellion is wholly transitionized to end it in that way, is a worn not tend it in that way, and has neither the constitutional nor physical power to end it in that way, and that if there were a disposition of the rebels to end it in that way no negotiation would be necessary, and no treaty other than the Constitution of the United States as construed by the Suprime Court would be possible, but all that would be required would be for the rebels to disperse and retire to their homes. Why then seek to disquise the fact that from the rebel standpoint negotiation means recognition, and peace means dismains and nothing less than dismain?

It is about time for Price to commence—his men see treated as outlaws and are shot down as fast as eaught everywhere in the interior. The loyal men who have valunteered to hunt bushwhackers are bent on making clean work this time, and resident rebels are feeling the blow which they hoped and expected would fall upon Union men, and especially upon the Badlesis. The circumstances seem to favor the hope and assistant and the same termination of the fact of the tree of

"Keep your men here," was his order to each regimental commander, "till the robels are within easy rasge, then let no shet be thrown away."

Meeting no force, the assaliants took courage, and when within two hundred yards, raised a tremendous yell and started on the denbie-quick, but at that instant the signal was given, and every battery, double-shotted with canister, was let loose, and the sparently deserted fortifications was lined with brade, and at they foot a shiring mushet was aimed at the assaliants.

I have frequently-read of the merderous the poured forth from the heights of Bunker Hill and from behind the cotton bales at New Oricans; but how feeble those when compared with the destroying volley which sets,

By this time Loring had tried our flank, but it was not unprotected, and his troops were repaised at every point, with great loss, he himself very severely, and some asy, mortally wounded, while leading the charge. He had a bad record; his course at New Orteans was looked upon with auspicton; and from that hour, he had held but a subordinate position in the field; and he determined by his courage on that day, to redeem his wounded before. But it is probable his life ast the forfest.

Skirnishing, too, had commenced in front of Dodge's corps; but it was only heavy skirnishing, as there was no serious attempt to make a charge.

The main advance, however, continued, the soldiers lying down, and firing, and then rising, advancing a short distance, and falling down sgain; but all would not avail; in two hours the field was clear of all combattants, and only occupied by the dead, the dying, and the severely wounded; the assault had ocen shandoned; Hood had returned to his works.

When once it was discovered that the rebels had finally retreated our men at once commenced barying the dead, and taking are of the wounded. Up to this time 713 bodies have been interred; but it is believed that at least 100 were carried away by the cebels. Over 1,000 acceptly wounded ware left in our hands, and estimating the loss, is the proper proportion of wounded to dead a could not be much mas than 6,000; indeed Gen. Of the loss, Logan's corps had 508. Tarce schell Generals, Loring, S. D. Lee, and Stewart, were severely wounded—the first named perhaps mortally.
These particulars—and they are reliable—are all that have yet resched us of that bloody day, and brilliant victory. There can be no doubt but the rebel stank is completely parallyzed. We have just precived secounts from Lyons of a steamboat seedent, which has canced a less of some thirty-lives, and created a very pointuit sensation. The inciding floor place on board of one of the new passenger boats recently alone on the Seine, and which convey great numbers of country people from one point of the river to another for two cents. These boats are built very narrow and stand very high out of the water. They are consequently extendity weak, and as the curves of the river are very sharp, and the channel, owing to sand banks, very tortuous, the sudden movement of the radder necessary in steering, causes them to roll very heavily. On Sunday last, one of the boats, called Mosuche had ieft, a landing place, where she had faken on board a vast number of holiday folks, all in their Sunday clothes, and the deck was completely thronged. Unhappily, just beyond the point where this occurred and before the crowd had got what may be called sealers, a very sharp bead of the friver fakes place, in making, which the Mouche Inrohed scalers, a very sharp bead of the friver fakes place, in making, which the Mouche Inrohed scalers, a very sharp bead of the friver fakes place, in making, which the Mouche Inrohed scalers, a very sharp bead of the friver fakes place, in making, which the Mouche Inrohed in a tompact mass against the singlet handwall their feet and their heads at the same moment, and anisowed themselves to be carried in a tompact mass against the singlet handwall were first to remove the first of the same has a five propried were interally "emptied" into deep water. At lifteen minutes past one o'clock, yesterday afternoon, Samuel Hallott, the relired contractor was shot and killed at Wyandotte. Mr. Hallett, while walking along the street, was shot in the back by Mr. Talcott. The leaven Immediately escaped on horseback, and pursuit of him was made by the civil officers.

Mr. Talcott is a reliroad engineer. He was sent here by Gen Fremont as chief angineer, and was discharged by Hallett. Talcott at larvards wrote a letter to President Lincoln describing the citicanery of the Pacific Rull. read management. That was tarce months ago. Sanuel Hallett, at Washington, telegraphed to his brother Thomas, at Washington, the citicanery of the Pacific Rull. read management. The injunction was obeyed, and report says that Mr. Talcott, who is a small and feeble man, was hearliestly beaten.

The end of the whipping was the tragedy above recorded.

The soul of the whipping was the tragedy above recorded.

The death of Sam'l Hallett, in Kansas, is now confirmed by telegrams recoved here. He was killed by Mr. Talcott, an engineer in the mrive of the Union Pacific Raliroad Company, over which Mr. Hallett had superintendence, and in consequence of sems abore disputes about momer matters.

Mr. Hallett though a roome pace next Horselll, ville, where he was a proudernt man. In New York he engaged in a great variety of speculations, among which was a Sub-Marine Company. He afterwards went to Spain, and in Madrid seconsplished wonders, by inducing, what never was done before the Spain and, to subscribe largely for the great work.

Mr. Hallett returned to this country and because a preasinent banker in Wall street, Fremont's Chief Engineer, y mpt with all the epintes dispense.

26 higher panel profiting by the experience of the past, were, as we are here, almost totally unprepared for a raid on however small a scale. It is true that Major General Couch had established his headquarters in the town, and had with him a body guard of some twenty or thirty men, and that one or two pieces of cannon were planted upon an emissence near the place: but beyond this no preparations had been made to defend the town in case of an assault by the enemy. It was known that the raiders were in the neighborhood, and the greater art of the money in bank, and other valuables, had been removed to a piace of safety; still the mass of the people retired on Friday night without dreaming of the calamities Saturday merning had in store for them. About two o'clock on last Saturday moraling two or three abots were fired from the cannon before referred to, which partially aroused the alegapers in the donuned town to a sense of their danger. A gentleman, aparticular friend of the ladies with whom we conversed, informed them that the enemy were known to be advancing upon the town. Hastily dreasing, they approached a front window for the purpose of reconnoitering; small bodies of rebels were observed peering cuttionaly round the corner apparently unarmed, who having seemingly satisfied their curiestly, retired to the outskirts of the town. It was but a short time, however, before they returned the strongence of heli, and that he had selected his hell-hounds to perform the work, and they would do it effectually. of the enemy's position. The selected point was in front of our center. A mine on a large scale, said by our engineer officers to be the largest ever constructed, was ordered to be day under a permanent hill in front of General Potter's division of the 9th Corps, aurrounded with the enemy's fortifications. The work was piaced in charge of Lieuteaant Colenel Pleasants, of the 48th Pennsylvants, and has occupied the last four weeks. The trunk of the mine was 400 feet long, opening into galleries of 300 feet. In each one the charge consisted of six tons of powder. The plan of sitack was to spring the mine and make an assault on masse amidst the construction among the army, by the explosion on the same point of line.

The order of attack was as follows: The 9th Corps was to lead in the assault. Of its three divisions, the first brigade, General Ledie communding, was in the lead, and the 2d and 3d were to support it on the right and left. The attack upon the enemy's works, the opening of which, early this morning, was announced in my last dispatch, has resulted in a failure, instead of the expected success. The explosion of the mine was deleyed until 4.20 a. m., by a defect in the fines. The rebel work went up, not all at once, but successively, by three explosions, as intended. A mass of matter was thrown up about one hundred feet, a diell back to the depth of the mine, about thirt feet below the surface, the fort shook for several seconds as though moved by an earthquake, the shock being sensibly felt by the troops formed for attack.

The attacking column was formed as staled. The attacking column was formed as staled. The attacking column was formed as staled. moved by an earthquake, the shock being sensibly felt by the troops formed for attack. The attacking column was formed as stated yeakerday, only the 2d and lat brigades of Ledile's division, fullowed by the 25th Massachusetts, provided with intrenching implements, pushed forward to the charge. They had moved but a few yards when they received a tremendous volley from the enemy, who had doubtless been put on the alert through the noise made by the concentration of troops, and the movements of artillers and trains during the night, so close to their front.

The explosion, although it had destroyed the robel redan, had not moved the robel abutia and other obstructions in its front, and the sessilants had great trouble in working their way through them. The interior of the rebel fort presented an awful speciacie. It had been occupied by parts of the 18th and 22d South Carolina regiments, and a battery of six rifled Sinch guns.

ische. It had been occupied by parts of the 18th and 22d South Carolina regiments, and a battery of six rifled 8-inch guns.

The whole—men, guns, ammunition and everything—had gone up and fallen back in a mingled mass. About two hundred men were only partially covered, and struggled desperately to get clear. About twenty, the clinding several officers, were subsequently ding out. Part of the attacking columns advanced some distance to the right of the fort and carried part of two lines of the breastworks connecting the fort with the main rebel line to the rear of it.

About two hundred and fifty prisoners were expitured in their intrendments and the rifle-pits about the fort and sent to the rear. As soon as our troops had reached the works, the enemy commenced a very heavy musket fire from two sides of an angle, which he works, the enemy commenced a very heavy musket fire from two sides of an angle, which he can be a supplementation on the 20th, and says at the care of the comment of the comment of the comment of the sound of the supplementation of the supplementa

The late sinking of the rebel pirste Alabams by the Kearsarge has undoubtedly created the greatest excitement in England and America yet caused by any single event of its magnitude since the commencement of the war. I mention this, merely to send you a little reminiscence of Captain Winslow, the brave and successful commander of the Kearsarge, while the Federal fleet of the then Commedore—since Admiral — Davis, was hammering away at Fort Pillow, one of the strongest forts the rebels have ever occupied, along about the middle of May two years past, your correspondent, with eight or ten scribolers for the press occupied coemfortable quarters with Captain Dan. Musselman upon the steamer Dickey, then used as the storeship, or commissary department, of the fleet. I am sure that all will remember the jorial, gentlemanly elderly gentlemen, in the undress uniform of a naval officer, who joined our mess, one day, immediately after the arrival of the dispatch boat from Cairo. He was rather short, had a small, quick black eye, gray whiskers, and the little hair he had left upon his head was fast assuming an irongres line. He was graceable in his manners, but rather peculiar, some of us thought, in his conversation and daily walk, specking in a rapid, disjointed style, and sain sing language that smacked strongly of the sait seas. In the ct, as the sequal has revealed, he was an

CONCORD. MAY 23, 1964. BY H. W. LONGPHILLOW. How heautiful it was, that one bright day In the long week of rain! Though all the splendor could not chase away The omnipresent pain. The lovely town was white with apple-blooms. And the great elms o'erhoad shot through with golden thread. Across the meadows, by the gray old manse,
The historic river flowed;
I was as one who wanders in a trance,
Unconscious of his road Their voices I could hear,

For the one face I looked for was not there, The one low voice was mute; Only an unseem presence filed the sir, And halfed my bareatt. Now I look back, and meadow, mance and sives Dimly my thought defines; I only see—a dress within a dress:— The hill-top hearsed with pines. I only hear above his place of rest.

Their tender undertone.

The infinite longings of a troubled breast,
The voice so like his own.

The roles so like his own.
